

In Your arms

Hanging out in the neighbourhood
People say that you're no good and they mean it
Angry fists lifted up in rage
There had to be a way to turn the page
Then You found me and You held me in Your arms

Memories that I thought were dead
Angry words that should not be said, they still haunt me
Places where I feared to tread
There must've been angels overhead
For You found me and You held me in Your arms

Throwing light into a deep black hole
Was how it felt when You touched my soul
Now I offer up control to You

Now I go the extra mile
To see the beauty of Your smile 'cause I love You
For if You could find me and if You could care
Well, I know You must be everywhere
For You found me and You held me in Your arms

What about the neighbourhood?
Those who believe that they're still no good
Can we reach them?
Heaven knows it's a living hell
But Your embrace is for them as well
When You find them and You hold them in Your arms
When You find them and You hold them in Your arms
Like You found me and You held me in Your arms.
