

Never Enough

I tried planning. I tried doing it off the cuff
They say if you try it's going to satisfy
But I think they've been calling my bluff
So I tried singing until my voice was gruff
I sang every word that has ever been heard
But it still didn't feel like enough

So tell me why, why, why is it never enough?

Then I tried acting. I thought that I was tough
I thought I was cool. I was nobody's fool
But I was only strutting my stuff
So I tried living, taking the smooth with the rough
I've got a big appetite so I took a big bite
But it still didn't feel like enough

Death and destruction, they're never satisfied
The eyes of man are always open wide
As there's no ending to being
Eyes never get enough of seeing

*Tell me why, why, why, why is it never enough?
Why is it never enough?*
