

Unspoken words

There are people come my way
There are words that I could say but I just don't say them
It happens nearly every day. There are compliments to pay
But I just don't pay them, I just don't pay them
I could say I was shy but I know that'd be a lie for it isn't true
And, you know, I'm starting to regret that I haven't said them yet
And I may not get another opportunity to say

Unspoken words - they're going around my head.

Unspoken words - the words I wished I'd said.

Unspoken words – they just won't go away

Unspoken words – I wish that I could say unspoken words.

Maybe somebody's feeling blue
A bit of credit where it's due might just help them
For there've been people that I knew and I liked the things they do
But I didn't tell them, just didn't tell them
I can say there wasn't time but I know that I'd be lying
For it isn't true, just isn't true
And, you know, I'm starting to regret that I haven't told them yet
For I may not get another opportunity to say

Unspoken words - they're going around my head.

Unspoken words - the words I wished I'd said.

Unspoken words – they just won't go away

Unspoken words – I wish that I could say unspoken words.

*What's wrong in saying what you feel? Are we scared of being real?
Don't you want the world to know or are we scared to let it show?*

So if somebody comes my way
And there's something I can say, I'm going say it - just going to say it
For I have something I can share and it's good, I do declare!
I'm going to share it. I'm going to get down off the shelf.
Going to try and be myself and let them know
I've found a better way to live. I've got something I can give
And I may not get a better opportunity to say

Unspoken words - they're going around my head.

Unspoken words - the words I wished I'd said.

Unspoken words – they just won't go away

Unspoken words – I wish that I could say unspoken words.
