

You're Unique

You've got no idea how much you're worth
Ah, but one day you could inherit the earth
You're strong, you're gentle and you're meek
You're unique

Something about you is so rare
I know I've never seen it anywhere
Don't ever squander your mystique
You're unique

When you think no one is watching
And you let your spirits soar
I see where that's coming from
And I know there's so much more
I know you think you're weak but you're unique

When you're feeling hopeless - haven't got a clue
You're tempted just to imitate what other people do
Then a tear slides down your cheek. You're unique

When you think no one is listening
And you feel you've got no choice
Know that you are very special
And you have your own voice
It's in the way you speak. You're unique

So come out of the shadows. Be who you really are Fulfill your true potential like a diamond or a star
Stop playing hide and seek

You're unique
